ZEPPELIN DESTROYED IN AN AIR BATTLE

Daring Canadian Aviator Engages In Duel With German Ship in Clouds;
Austrians Encircle Lemberg.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, June 7.—For the first time on record a Zeppelin in the air was destroyed by an aviator in an aeroplane. Reginald Warneford, a young Canadian sub-lieutenant in the royal navy, who mastered aeroplaning only this summer, performed the feat, and tonight is somewhere within the British lines while the Zeppelin lies in ruins sprawled on the roof and ground of an orphanage near Ghent.

Falling in a blazing mass, after being struck by the young aviator's bombs, its crew of 28 were killed, as were several occupants of the orphanage buildings. The theory advanced is that the Zeppelin was the craft that raided the east coast of England last night for the fact that it was in the air over Belgium at 3 o'clock this morning leads to the belief that it was returning from the expedition, not starting.

The Zeppelin flying comparatively low, began to mount as soon as the aeroplane was sighted, but the British wasp speedily climbed the air in long spirals, reaching a position a length over the German's vast bulk. From this point of vantage Warneford burst the Zeppelin's shell repeatedly with incendiary bombs. The explosions caused an air vacuum and the monoplane turned completely over and began to fall. Warneford succeeded in righting the smaller craft and landed safely.

A late news dispatch says Warneford was assisted by a French aeroplane. In the long pursuit the aeroplanes and Zeppelin exchanged rifle and machine gun fire.

No Report.

BERLIN, June 7.—No report was received from the submarine flotilla, covering the torpedoing recently off the coast of Ireland of the American steamer Nebraska. It is believed that all the submarines out at that time have returned to their bases.

Teutons Afe Aggressive.

LONDON, June 7.—If the Germans have transferred troops from the east to the west, as reported, they have held sufficient on the east front to continue without relaxation the offensive that carried them and the Austrians almost across Galicia.

The forces which compelled Przemyśl to surrender are battering their way eastward, and according to both German and Austrian official statements, at one point in the southeast, are hardly more than 60 miles from the Russian frontier.

The troops which swept through Stry have continued farther east until they are 30 miles beyond that town and equally beyond Lemberg, a position which appears perilous. Farther north they are 18 miles east of Przemyśl, so roughly speaking, the encircling movement on Lemberg is duplicating that of Przemyśl.

The Germans also are on the offensive in the Baltic provinces and their official statement records the crossing of the River Windau, southeast of Libau. There is hard fighting and heavy losses on both sides, notably north of Arras, where the French seem determined to nibble their way forward. Fighting continues in the west but the contests are hardly more than trench warfare contrasted with the fighting in Galicia.

THE LIQUOR BILL IS AGAIN RESURRECTED

Which It Was Doomed to Oblivion Last Saturday.

PHOENIX, June 7.—In pursuance with his notice given on Saturday, Senator Martin moved to reconsider the vote whereby the bill regulating the introduction and sale of alcohol was defeated on that day in the senate. The motion was carried with only the votes of Chase and Goldwater against it. The bill was then referred to the committee on state accounting and methods of business for amendment. This committee is composed of Stapley, Bacon, Crabb, Martin and Goldwater.

Colter's bill providing for the creation of irrigation districts within the state was reported favorably from the committee and now goes to the committee of the whole for consideration.

The fact that a bill turned over to the printers by the house on Saturday was reported in that house today printed, while several bills sent to the printer several days before by the senate remain unprinted, brought forth a protest from the president, as well as some of the other members and resulted in the contract with the firm having the contract for printing the bills read in order to ascertain what remedy the senate has.

The only recourse open for them seemed to be to have work done in some other place at the expense of the contractor, but no further action was taken.

A motion by Claridge to concur in the house resolution extending an invitation to the representatives in congress from Arizona to speak before a joint session of the house and senate was lost by a tie vote of 6 to 6.

The House.
The committee on public lands reported a substitute for house bill No.

STARTS OUT TO RECOVER LOST THRONE

RUSSIAN HEADQUARTERS, Persia, June 7.—The grandson of the lost King of Botan set out today to win back his ancestral throne with the aid of 20 Kurds. Bedrkhan Bey was really the hereditary lord of a group of Kurdish chiefs and in Asiatic language a king until he became involved in war with Turkey in the year of the Hegira 1262. Notwithstanding his French education and his polished manners Abdurrazzak thinks in Turkish Arkurdish when he relates Kurdish history. Bedrkhan Bey was imprisoned and passed 18 years at Crete, in honorable detention. Later he was allowed to establish his household gods at Constantinople, where Abdurrazzak was born, and he died at Damascus, the grandson, after being secretary of the Turkish embassy at Petrograd in 1892 and master of ceremonies at the Constantinople court, engaged in a palace plot ten years ago. Together with two brothers and an uncle, he passed four years in a Tripoli prison with heavy ball and chain attached to his leg under a suspended sentence of death. The Turkish revolution brought freedom and Abdurrazzak shared the honeymoon of Turkish constitutionalism with the Young Turks for seven months. He then formed the plan of separating Kurdistan from Turkey and went to Russia to seek support. After five years there he came to Persia to establish relations with his grandfather's subjects. He opened a Kurdish school in a building he bought in the city of Hai and bided his time, which he now thinks has come.
